NOWADAYS THE PALACE HOSTS
THE HOUSE OF RECEPTIONS OF THE GOVERNMENT
OF MOSCOW, A PRESS
CENTER, PETROFF
PALACE HOTEL AND A MUSEUM AND EXHIBITION AREA.

Originally this beautiful palace was built in late 18th century for Empress Catherine the Great.

Monarchs and noblemen needed some place to stay at the end of a tedious journey from the "Northern Palmyra" (Saint-Petersburg) to the first capital city (Moscow), to have some rest and to make themselves look smart and presentable for ceremonial arrival in Moscow with much fanfare.

Russian architect Matvey Kazakov designed this luxurious building in the finest tradition of the Romantic Neo-Gothic style. Palace gardens were later transformed into a beautiful landscape park, which is known as one of the most picturesque parks in Moscow.
